The Axe

By Frances Randolph

THE University will not establish a School of Journalism here, because it means vocationalizing the Department of Arts and Sciences—at least that is the latest opinion which has come to us from campus discussion. Did the University consider it vocationalizing the Department of Arts and Sciences when it founded the School of Engineering? JOURNALISM IS NO MORE A VOCATION THAN IS ENGINEERING, MEDICINE OR LAW! It is the new profession, and as such is recognized by many of the leading universities of the country. Newspaper writing has ceased to be a haphazard thing, a stepping stone to "something better." It is an end in itself—a work that the best of us may be proud to devote our lives to. George Washington offers seven years training to the men who are to take care of the health of our bodies, six years work to those who are to protect our legal rights, and NOTHING AT ALL to the men who are to develop the public opinion which makes our government!

THANKSGIVING Day was such in name only to the members of our football team.

IT MIGHT be well to change the name of this national day of rejoicing anyway. Giving thanks for anything has come to be the least of its reasons for existence. Turkeys are perhaps the primary reason for the continuance of this custom, closely followed in importance by football games, fraternity dances and release from work and school. Few people have anything really to give thanks for except attacks of acute indigestion and colds taken while watching "annual football classics."

THE Phi Sigma Kappa Sweetheart appeared in a blaze of glory at their Thanksgiving dance. This does not mean that only one member of the fair sex graced their boards that night, but that a new song bearing that name is challenging the heretofore unassailed position of "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

ALTHOUGH for obvious reasons we were not present at the annual Greek men's get-together last Monday night, we suppose that as usual, it went up in smoke.

SLEEP, says the psychologist, is a state of intoxication caused by poison in the system, and may to a great measure be reduced if not abolished by careful management. It seems that even the mildest forms of intoxication are soon to suffer prohibition.

ALSO, according to the same authority, sleep may effectively be speeded up by causing the de-toxifying influences to work faster. In this way, a person may be taught to sleep fast and get it over quickly instead of wasting eight long hours while the slow process is going on. Everything we do is being speeded up in just this manner. The modern American's life is one continual rush. He dresses fast, eats fast, walks fast, works fast. He is fascinated by time-saving devices, efficiency experts, and auto speed demons. He ruins his digestion at quick lunches, his health by riding street cars instead of walking, and his mind by not giving it time to think. And now he is to speed up his sleep!

INSTEAD of speeding up still more of our lives, we might try slowing down. Perhaps we would have time to enjoy the things we do if we did not rush from one to another. The faster a machine goes, the better it is, but man is not a machine, eminent authorities to the contrary notwithstanding. In speeding up our motor processes to the point of highest efficiency, we are neglecting something of infinitely greater importance. The men who have made the world's history have been the men who STOPPED TO THINK!

PROCEEDS FROM FOOTBALL HOP TO AID ALL ACTIVITIES

G. W. Clubs to Help in Financing Sports Not Now Recognized

MUSIC BY CAROLINIANS

Dance in Gym Friday Night Is First Big Affair of Year; Opens Social Season

The entire proceeds from the Football Hop, except for a small amount to defray expenses of the Spring Inter-Class Track and Field Meet, will be turned over to the general activity fund by the G. W. Clubs, according to a recent announcement of the Committee in charge of preparations. Members of the two letter clubs believe that in giving this dance Friday they are accomplishing a double purpose. Besides honoring the football team which is the primary object, they hope to earn money for the purpose of encouraging participation in activities.

The reorganization plan this year did not include sufficient funds to give the different major activities as much as holders of the "G. W." believed they deserved. Several new and revived activities also are uncertain of financial support from the University. The "G. W." Clubs hope that their efforts may help to bring to the campus some of the sports not at present recognized.

Opens Social Season

The Football Hop is the first University dance of the year and is considered as the fall social classic. The gymnasium is sufficiently large to accommodate several hundred couples, and all other conditions being favorable, it is expected that the hall will be filled to capacity.

Music will be furnished by the Carolinians, who have quite an enviable record among the orchestras in Washington. Kenny Miller, who is making bookings for the Carolinians, is sure that this select orchestra will furnish enough music from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. to satisfy the jazzest collegian. The orchestra promises to present additional attractions, which, however, they refuse to disclose beforehand. Other surprises are being planned by the committee.

FOOTBALL BANQUET TO BE HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Speeches, Movies of Team in Action, And Other Special Features Fill Program

Members of George Washington University's football team, and the coaching staff will be the guests of honor at the Annual Football Dinner, to be given by the Alumni Association at the Hotel Lafayette on Friday, December 4, at 7:00 p. m.

The custom of giving a dinner in honor of the football men was started some years ago and has become an annual event.

J. Lewis Moneyway is arranging a brief and interesting program for the dinner. There will be a few short impromptu talks and a few musical numbers. Miss Estelle Murray, soprano, and Mr. George Myers, tenor, will sing, while Miss Ann L. Goodhue accompanies them at the piano. As a feature of the evening's entertainment, motion picture views of one of the George Washington football games will be presented.

Arrangements for the dinner are being made by an alumni committee, composed of Gilbert L. Hall, President of the Alumni Association, Miss Arline DuFour, Philbrook McCoy, Dr. F. A. Hornaday, W. W. Ross, Clinton K. Yingling, Jr., Miss Maxine Rolle and Vernon H. Brewster. Tickets for the dinner, which are selling at $3.00 apiece, may be obtained from any member of the committee, Miss Marguerite Daly, or at the Alumni office at 2100 G Street.

DOMIGAN WINS SUNDAY RUN OF ALOYSIUS CLUB

G. W. U. Cross Country Track Star Not Extended

Flashing over the line ahead of eight entrants, Horace Domigan of the George Washington cross-country team won the Aloysius Club's three-mile run Sunday morning on the Plaza cinder-path. Domigan led from start to finish and won easily. The time was 16:37.25. Heinrich of Gallaudet, and Freedman, who carried the colors of Central High School, battled it out for second honors, with the Kendall Greenier finishing ahead of the Centralite.

Eight harriers started, with six going the route.

The six men to finish were:
1. Domigan, George Washington.
2. Heinrich, Gallaudet.
3. Freedman, Central High.
4. Montague, Aloysius.
5. Bonaffon, Aloysius.
6. Frager, Apache A. C.

EDITOR CONTRIBUTES BOOKS TO UNIVERSITY

Mr. Arthur Stanley Riggs, editor of "Art and Archaeology," and a world-renowned traveler, lecturer and author, has presented a collection of 45 Spanish books to the University Library. Several rare volumes concerning the Philippines, and a group of Spanish novels and plays are included in the collection. Mr. Riggs' gift was made through Professor H. G. Doyle of the Department of Romance Languages of the University.

This is the second recent contribution of Spanish books to the Library. In September, through the efforts of Professor Doyle, Vincente Blasco Ibanez, noted Spanish author, donated a complete set of his works to the University. It is expected that Mr. Riggs' collection will be added to the Ibanez group, and will provide a nucleus for a Spanish Alcove in the Library.

THETA DELTS WIN LEAGUE TWO TITLE

Defeat Kappa Sigma, 18 to 13, In League Championship Contest

CHAMPIONSHIP TONIGHT

Game Between Sigma Nu and S. A. E. In League One Is Played Over

Theta Delta Chi won first place in League 2 and the right to play the winner of League 1 for the interfraternity basketball championship by scoring their fourth straight victory, defeating Kappa Sigma, 18 to 13, last Tuesday evening, after having won from Theta Upsilon Omega Monday. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Sigma Nu game played Tuesday was protested and ordered replayed.

Kappa Sigma took the lead in the opening minutes of the league championship game, played before a crowd of 500 spectators. The Theta Delta basketers seemed to be unable to find the hoop at first. When they did begin to score, however, the Theta Delta Chi players piled up points fast and furiously, leading the Kappa Sigma 12 to 7 at the end of the half.

In the second half honors were about even, each team scoring six points, although the winners seemed to have a slight edge on floor work. Theta Delta Chi won the game on its strong work in the second quarter when it took the lead and ran up a five point advantage.

Bartlett and Buckingham, Theta Delta forwards, did all the scoring for that team, Bartlett getting three field goals and four free throws, while Buckingham gathered three field goals and a single foul shot. Brumbaugh, captain and guard, deserves credit for a fine defensive game. Tribbles was star point guard for Kappa Sigma.

T. U. O. and Kappa Sigs Battle.

The T. U. O.-Kappa Sig battle of Monday evening was an interesting game. Kappa Sigma piled up a lead of 13 points during the first half, leading 17 to 4 at the end of that period. In the second half Theta Upsilon Omega made a fine attempt to overtake the leaders, scoring six points while Kappa Sigma could gain only two, but the lead was too great for the T. U. O.'s and the final score was 19 to 10 in favor of Kappa Sigma.

Pomeroy played a spectacular game for the losers, scoring three field goals.

FORMER PRINCIPAL SPEAKS TO CLUB

Talk By Stephen E. Kramer and Club Dance Among Plans for Near Future

Robert A. Maurer, former principal of Central High School, and now a member of the faculty of Georgetown University, spoke before the Central Club on Monday, November 23. Mr. Maurer is best remembered by those who attended Central when he was its leader by his often repeated, "You will get out of Central, just as out of life, exactly what you put into it, no more and no less."

At the business meeting which followed Mr. Maurer's talk, it was decided that the club should have its regular meeting the second Wednesday of each month during the school year. The club is planning a subscription dance in the near future. The feasibility of dancing after each regular meeting was also discussed.

Stephen E. Kramer, former principal of Central, now Assistant Superintendent of Schools, has been asked to speak before the club at its next meeting.

CONTRIBUTIONS ASKED FOR TROUBADORS' SHOW

Any students with literary ability are urged to submit material suitable for sketches, musical skits, or episodes for a musical show to be produced by the Troubadors. All such material should be mailed to 1726 17th Street, N. W., care of the Troubadors.

SLEEP IS FORM OF INTOXICATION, G. W. SCIENTISTS THINK

Findings in Last Summer's Sleepless Tests Point to Intoxication Theory

SUBJECT "SEES THINGS"

May Become Possible to Cut Sleep to Maximum of Six Hours

Tentative findings of the George Washington University professors who subjected eight students to sleepless tests last summer, point to the "intoxication theory of sleep," according to a research bulletin issued last week on "Experimental Insomnia."

"When the drunkard becomes intoxicated, what does he do?" reads the bulletin. "Sleep! And, as a rule, wakes up de-toxified. So in the case of our experiments, when the subjects retired after 60 hours of insomnia, the chemical and microscopical analyses of both their blood and urine, pointed to a state of intoxication, which was cured by a short period of sleep."

If this theory should be borne out by further experiments conducted under more carefully controlled conditions it may be possible to cut down the sleep of an individual to a maximum of six hours out of twenty-four, thus increasing his productivity by one fourth. The scientists believe that rest is not so much a matter of length of sleep as depth of sleep, and ability of the human organisms to adjust themselves to the hours of sleep allotted.

Sleep Matter of Habit

To quote the published statements: "If this assumption be true, the length of time that people sleep is very largely a question of habit. It might be possible to cause their sleeping mechanisms to work faster, just as by a series of conditioned reflexes we can make the salivary glands work faster. Another thing that seems to support this idea is the fact that the first two hours of sleep are proved to be very much deeper than the last two."

The professors account for dreams by placing them in one of the stages of sleep having little depth, at some time after the second hour.

"If by building up new habits," they continue, "or by the discovery of some other means whereby the amount of sleep required by most persons can be cut down to six hours instead of eight a night, it would be possible to increase our period of productivity one-fourth. Whether such an attempt would be followed by any injurious effects on the organism, no one is at present in a position to say."

To Hold Other Tests

"Only a series of carefully planned experiments can determine whether reducing the number of hours of sleep, if gradually done, produces any bad results in the organisms. It is expected that the conclusions in this series of experiments will be checked in a series of experiments under better controlled conditions, and it should be borne in mind that they are tentative only."

One of the subjects reported unusual visionary illusions after he had gone without sleep for forty hours. On one occasion a phantom man appeared on a ledge watering some plants. Later he saw what seemed a man sitting in a front yard patting the head of a little girl. When he approached, the vision became a clump of shrubs. At still another time a post transformed itself into a little colored boy.

Those subjecting themselves to the experiment were Dr. Fred A. Moss, Dr. William Middleton, Miss Katherine Omwake, Miss Thelma Hunt, Miss Alice Haines, Robert Ward, John Petrie, and Watson Monroe.

The tests were conducted by Professor Moss, of the Department of Psychology, in collaboration with Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, Dr. Joseph H. Roe, Dr. W. J. Mallory, Dr. John A. Reed, and Professor James Defandorf of the Medical School.

MOSS GUEST AT DINNER OF PHILIPPINIANS

Endorses Filipinos' Claim to Independence From U. S.

Filipinos have as much right to ask their independence of America as the American colonists had to make a like request of England, Professor Fred A. Moss told members of the Philippinians Society of George Washington University, gathered for dinner at the Lee House, November 22. Professor Moss, adviser of the organization, was honor guest of the occasion. Dr. Reyes, Secretary to the Filipino Independence Mission, and Director Bunuan, of the Press Bureau, also addressed the society. Miss Hans rendered selections on the piano.

The Philippinians have long been active in fostering the social, economic, and political aspirations of Filipinos in Washington. It has recently undertaken to launch a drive for funds for the University Endowment.

COACH CRUM ANNOUNCES THREE GRID OPPONENTS

Football games have been scheduled for next season with Bucknell University, Pennsylvania State College, and William and Mary College, according to a statement made by Coach Crum at the Interfraternity Smoker held in the gymnasium last Wednesday night.

The game with Bucknell will be played in this city, and it will be the only appearance of the Bison team here, as they have not included Georgetown on their schedule for next year. Penn State will be met at State College, Pennsylvania. The place where the William and Mary game is to be played has not been announced.

The schedule is not yet complete, and is not ready for publication, but some idea of the caliber of teams the Hatchetmen are to meet next year may be gained from this announcement.

DR. LEWIS KNOCKS "ATHLETIC CIRCUS"

"Big Business Football Is Destructive of True Sportsmanship," Says President

EDUCATION COMES FIRST

Prexy Takes Crack at Valentino and Grange in Interview Printed in the World

"I am a warm advocate of football but not of commercial football; I am unalterably opposed to the commercialization of any form of college athletics. Big business football is destructive to true sportsmanship; its growing prestige and power is threatening to convert our institutions of learning into athletic circuses."

These are the words of President Lewis as they appeared in the New York World, in a recently published interview. Dr. Lewis condemns big stadia, heavy gate receipts, and extravagant sport expenditures in general.

"I have become convinced that football today is decidedly over-emphasized by the average undergraduate," he continues. "College is primarily a place of thinking and learning and not a recreational center."

Knocks Valentino and Grange

"If youth could be made to realize in college that Rudolph Valentino and his slave chain is not the most fascinating thing on earth or that a 100-yard run on a gridiron is not the work of the world's greatest man, our colleges will do much for future America."

Athletic development for the rank and file of students, cooperative coaches who under all circumstances should be faculty members, less hero worship and more athlete scholars, are some of the remedies that he suggests for modern school sports. "We must have sport for sport's sake," President Lewis is quoted as having said. "Our world calls for two-fisted battlers who never stay down. However, it is more vital that we have sport for education's sake; for without the true spirit of sportsmanship no man can successfully play the game of life."

"Lastly, I would try to drive home that sport is for health's sake and not for the winning of a victory; that education is the primary purpose of college life and that football or any other form of college athletics is only an aid to good scholarship and character development and not the alpha and omega of college life."

ELECT DOYLE HEAD OF LANGUAGE TEACHERS

With Ruediger, Represented G. W. at Colleges and Secondary Schools Convention

Professor Henry Gratian Doyle was elected President of the Foreign Language Teachers' group of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle States and Maryland at a convention held last Saturday at Columbia University. For the past year Professor Doyle has served as Secretary of the organization.

The Association, of which President Lewis is a vice-president, is composed of delegates from practically all the colleges and secondary schools in the Middle Atlantic States.

Dean Ruediger of Teacher's College also represented George Washington at this convention.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO GIVE CONCERT SOON

Final arrangements have been completed for the concert of the George Washington Choral Society to be given Monday, December 7, in Corcoran Hall. The girls are being trained for the occasion under the direction of Miss Estelle Wentworth.

The society is in the midst of its most successful season. The double quartette has given delightful concerts at the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church, the Epworth Methodist Church, South, and the Mt. Alto Hospital.

CATHOLIC U. BESTS HATCHETTE TEAM IN ANNUAL CLASSIC

Stubbornly Fought Struggle Goes to Brooklanders by 20 to 0 Score

ENEMY ATTACK STRONG

Buff and Blue Eleven Unable to Check Passing Game of Adversaries

By CAMPBELL STARR

Outpassed and outrushed by their heavier opponents, the Buff and Blue gridiron warriors fell before a team of their class for the first time this season, in the sixth annual football classic between George Washington and Catholic University, played at the Brookland Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. Superior weight and reserve strength tells the tale of the 20 to 0 score.

The 4,000 fans who turned out to see the affair were treated to one of the best aerial attacks ever seen in the District, as well as one of the most stubborn, though futile, defenses ever put up by a local college eleven. After the first quarter the outcome of the game was obvious, for in the second period the weight and reserve power of the Maroon and Black machine began to tell. From that time on it was simply a question of what the difference in score would be. Facing the furious assaults of the Brooklanders with dogged determination, the Hatchettes displayed a beautiful defense game, although unable to halt the aggressive McAuliffe combination.

Sapp and Wilton Scintillate.

Henry Sapp was by far the shining light of the fray. Playing the game with an injured foot, it was he who late in the third quarter filled the atmosphere with a veritable shower of forward passes. Long, beautiful passes they were. Passes which, had they been consistently successful, would have spelled defeat for the Maroon and Black cohorts. Although rushed and hurried by the C. U. men who broke through the line and bore down upon him, Sapp shot the ball with rifle-like accuracy time after time, forty yards or better, only to

DRAMATIC CLUB ABLE TO MOVE OUT OF GYM

Outline Stage Marked Off in Stockton Hall When Unable to Move Gym Stage

Although the best efforts of Mr. Schatz's corps of huskies failed to devise any way of moving the portable stage from the gymnasium to the new "Little Theatre" in the basement of Stockton Hall, the Dramatic Club, aided by Mr. Schatz, are working on a plan which will enable the Dramatic Club to use it as originally intended.

The outline of the stage, correct in all dimensions, will be indicated by painted lines on the floor. Footlights and side floodlights will be put in their proper places on these lines, and with wallboard a proscenium arch will be improvised, backdrops and wings provided, and all facilities for correct rehearsing and experimentation with lights and properties arranged for.

As soon as this equipment is in place, Miss Katherine Brown, dramatic director, will begin her conferences in scenery costuming and lighting.

Rehearsals to Begin Soon.

The date and place of meeting of these groups will be announced next week. Rehearsals for the Dramatic Festival will also begin when the Little Theatre is ready, probably early next week.

The important and responsible position of stage manager for the entire Dramatic Association is open to candidates with the proper qualifications. Those who are interested in qualifying for this work, which will provide valuable experience in backstage matters, should see Professor Bolwell as soon as possible.

A committee is at work at present fixing final dates for productions of the Dramatic Festival. It has already been decided that the annual Union Vodovill will be presented first on the program, to be followed by the Mimes, then the Players and the Dionysians, and finally the Troubadors.

GRADUATES OF EASTERN TO ORGANIZE TONIGHT

Tonight at 7:15, graduates of Eastern High School will meet in Room 29, Corcoran Hall, to form the Eastern Club of George Washington University. A constitution has been drawn up and will be passed on at this initial meeting. It is probable that officers will also be elected.

Eastern alumni constituting the nucleus of the organization plan to form within the club, basketball and rifle teams for both men and women. A closed dance is also under consideration.

THE BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

The men's basketball schedule, which has just been announced, should cause considerable satisfaction to those students who decried the fact that we did not meet any of the country's famous football teams. Coach Crum will lead his basketball team against the stiffest opposition possible, both on the home floor and away, and if his team succeeds in winning one-half of the games scheduled the season will be a marked success.

One thought concerning the coming basketball season we would like to impress on the student body. We cannot expect our basketballmen to win games of the caliber scheduled if they are not given much better support than they were last year. Unless the gymnasium is packed for every home game, and the team is properly inspired before every trip, this hard schedule is going to mean a much greater margin of defeats than of victories. Just a little effort on the part of each individual and organization in school toward allowing nothing to interfere with the basketball games, will put the season across in great shape.

COMPULSORY PHYSICAL EDUCATION

It is rumored that next year will see compulsory physical education in George Washington for the full-time freshmen men as well as women. Why wait until next year? Why not start next semester? A system that would allow the freshmen choice of football, basketball or track as an elective, should result in producing a good-sized squad of new men in each of these sports for the spring training period.

At present there is a rather haphazard system of getting new material for the teams. The football coach finds it necessary to scout around every year and get men that he has had no chance to look over. The success he has attained in this field is remarkable, but all coaches would find their task greatly facilitated under a system of compulsory physical training. A well-organized freshman team in football, basketball and track, would give the coaches plenty of material to draw from when choosing the varsities.

GREATNESS IN DEFEAT

What happened at Brookland Thanksgiving Day now occupies too tragic a place in Hatchette football history to be discussed here. One thing which did show that the loyal sons and daughters of George Washington University were back of the team wearing the Buff and Blue in defeat as well as in victory was the laudable way in which they escorted the losing team from the field of battle. Wilton and Sapp, who had tried in vain to stem the Brookland tide, were lifted high on the shoulders of the students, and Captain Jack Slaughter was cheered by the many who came to him with congratulations on a gallant fight. This is the kind of spirit we want at George Washington. Let's keep it up.

STUDIES VERSUS ACTIVITIES

President Lewis' recent assertion that ability to star on a gridiron is not the primary requisite of a great man, evidently has not penetrated to Illinois where followers of "Red" Grange are determined to run him for Congress. Meanwhile "Red" ekes out a paltry $20,000 a game in professional football, more than twice the yearly salary of a Congressman.

Grange probably went to college to secure an education, but Harold Grange, the scholar, has long since been neglected for "Red" Grange the "ball carrier." There are others who come to college for an education, and the marvel is that some get what they come after, especially when one considers the number of activities, organizations and social obligations that claim the students' time.

Messrs. John L. McCarthy and Howard Newman of Columbian College spent the holidays in New York City where they attended the Army and Navy game at the Polo Grounds.

Phi Sigma Kappa held their annual Thanksgiving Dance at the Chapter House last Thursday night. The House was decorated with Buff and Blue of G. W. The Carolinians furnished the music.

One of the features of the evening was the introduction of the Phi Sigma Kappa sweetheart song, and to say that it made a big hit is putting it mildly. A buffet supper was served at one o'clock.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Estes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruth and Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield.

The active chapter and alumni of Kappa Sigma Fraternity were entertained on November 21st by a musical show tendered them by their pledges, and followed by refreshments. After the performance, Raymond Johnson, another Johnson brother, was duly initiated into the chapter.

The Thanksgiving Dance given by the Kappa Sigma Fraternity at their Chapter House was enjoyed by all those who attended, among whom were many of our fair G. W. co-eds. The house was attractively decorated in true Thanksgiving spirit and during intermission the guests were entertained with novelty dances.

Phi Chapter of Phi Chi held one of the most attractive dances of the season at the Theta U House last Friday week. Dr. and Mrs. George B. Jenkins, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Roe, and Dr. and Mrs. Reed were among the guests present. Those constituting the entertainment committee were Russel Jansen, Dan Dougherty, Al Wildman, and Pete Pullman. Oliver's Virginians furnished enchanting strains from nine till one. The entire evening was characterized by an unusual spirit of good fellowship.

Helen Periam spent the week-end in New York visiting her family.

Theta Delta Chi entertained with a dance at its house on Connecticut Avenue on the evening before Thanksgiving.

Members of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity and their guests enjoyed a dance given at the chapter house Thanksgiving eve.

Floyd Pomeroy, Marvin Gettle, Jack Poole, and George Gardner, of the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity, motored to New York over Thanksgiving to attend the Army-Navy football game. They were guests of Epsilon Alpha Chapter, of Temple University, Philadelphia, for a short while.

Phi Alpha Chapter of the Chi Omega fraternity celebrated the installation of their new chapter at Ohio Wesleyan with a delightful Thanksgiving luncheon given in the rooms last Wednesday. The guests of honor were Misses Helen Hall and Mildred Whaley, back from Syracuse University for the holidays, and Professors Moss and Ragatz, and Dean Wilbur. Chi Omega is the largest national women's fraternity, and the last installation brings the number of chapters to seventy-six.

Gamma Beta Pi entertained last Monday night at dinner in honor of its basketball team, which won the inter-society series this year for the second time. There were thirty guests present, including Dean Rose, Miss Kincannon, Miss Jones and Miss Hopkins as honor guests, active members of the chapter and alumnae. Betty Bradford acted as toastmistress.

Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained the members of Gamma Beta Pi of George Washington University and Sigma Delta of the University of Maryland at tea on Sunday, November 22nd, at the home of Mrs. Edward Stone, 3111 N Street. Mrs. Claude Watts, president of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association, Mrs. Brock and Miss Smith were among those receiving.

A dance at the Sigma Nu house last Thursday night helped members of the fraternity to forget the defeat of the football team in the afternoon. Happy Walker's "Black and White Orchestra," was at its best.

Dr. and Mrs. N. H. Darton announced the engagement of their daughter, Annunciate, to Mr. William Kerlin, at a tea on November 22.

"Ye Merry Men" of Kappa Sig know how to throw parties that are memorable, and their Thanksgiving dance was exceptionally so. The strains of "Home Sweet Home" brought a chorus of "More-More!"—but weep no more, my ladies, there will be another soon. Jimmie Naylor, Bennie Meeks, J. T. White, and Paul Horney entertained at intermission with various versions of the Charleston.

George L. Wilkinson, A. B., '88, LL. B., '91, LL. M., '92, was here last week arguing a case before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Epsilon of Sigma Chi, at a Thanksgiving formal dance, on November 27, entertained Sigma Chi Alumni and guests from the other fraternity chapters on the campus. Dick Leibert with all his joyful orchestra—Alice Tupman with her superlative Charleston—Jerry Slicker and Meliggs Bryan with their clever dancing and a solo by Peggy Hoff-stetter were features of the evening. Among the Sigma Chis prominent in national affairs who were present were Judge Price of California, Alexander W. Gregg, Solicitor of Internal Revenue; former Assistant Attorney General Rush Holland; Hon. Cleveland A. Newton of Missouri and Steven T. Mather, Director of National Park Service.

Wednesday evening Virginia Williams and William O'Brien were married at the home of Miss Williams. The house was decorated in pink and white chrysanthemums, and a string orchestra furnished music effectively during the ceremony. The bride had one attendant, Miss Hazel McVay, of Plainfield, N. J. The best man was Mr. William Shysway, of Lynbrook, Long Island. After a southern honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will be at home at Lynbrook, Long Island.

"The Pi Phi girls have got a goat." The chapter welcomes Ethel Fred as the new pledge, to be initiated in the spring, probably.

Mary Shoemaker is now wearing a big diamond on the third finger of her left hand. We are beginning to see why she didn't return to school this year.

Some girls have all the luck! "Scotty" reached up, brought down, and hung on Betty Burns, petite S. K. from New York, a present and a star—as good as a marriage license any of day.

T. B. Morrow, William Heller, and Ivan Booker, members of Acadia, spent last week-end in Philadelphia.

We're glad Eva Lewis is a blonde—they look so stunning in mourning. Bob's Sigma Chi pin will perhaps be a ray of hope and cheer.

Alpha Delta Pi Sorority entertained in honor of their national member, Miss Rosabel Brown, at a tea last Sunday afternoon at the University Women's Club. Patronesses of the sorority, mothers of the members, other sororities on the campus, and members of the faculty were guests.

INTRODUCING THE FACULTY

HUGH MILLER

Tall, athletically built, striking, a mustache and nose "specs"; tennis "shark"; social light; engineer; ex-captain.

Dean Miller, of the College of Engineering, after graduating from Leal's School, Plainfield, N. J., 1897, went to Princeton where he received his C. E. in 1901. Later, 1910 and 1912, he took post-graduate work in the Harvard summer school.

He was first consulting engineer for a New York firm. Then he went to Princeton as instructor in civil engineering, 1902, and also did private tutoring during 1902-3. From 1903, until he went to Harvard as instructor, 1909, he followed his vocation in business in Boston. Leaving Harvard he went to Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, N. Y., as professor of civil engineering, remaining there till 1915 when he became a lecturer on civil engineering at Rice Institute, Houston, Tex., 1915-17. He has been professor of civil engineering and dean of the College of Engineering at G. W. since 1922.

War called him to the colors in 1917 as captain in the engineers. As such he was connected in 1920 with the Bankhead Highway Transcontinental Convoy, as engineer officer. The convoy started from the zero milestone south of the White House and in the course of the trip examined 7,000 bridges and repaired or rebuilt 700. In 1921 he was in charge of the survey for a new harbor at Corpus Christi, Tex., the total cost of which was to be in excess of $4,000,000.

In the course of his experience Dean Miller has made surveys for towns, estates, cemeteries, quarries, transmission lines, and made designs for sewerage systems, buildings, water supply systems, dams and retaining walls.

Since he has become dean, the Department of Engineering has been completely reorganized, standards for both admission and scholastics improved, and many new courses and much new equipment added.

Dean Miller is a prominent member of numerous engineering societies. Incidentally he is also a "champeen" tennis player, being rated No. 3 in the Dumbarton Club, and has coached G. W. tennis teams for the last four years.

EXCHANGES

In a recent issue of the "Temple University Weekly" is featured a most interesting story on art and its important place in everyday life, by Miss Harriet Sartain, Dean of Philadelphia School of Design for Women. The author paraphrases Kilpling. She says, "It is necessary that women should realize the truth of the saying, 'Art is Art and Junk is Junk and never the twain shall meet!'"

"The Flat Hat" of William and Mary College is one of our best and most dependable exchanges. It is a paper of twelve well-arranged pages and is coming to be more and more one of genuine literary worth.

It is indeed seldom that a college can boast three championship teams in one year. The current issue of the "Swarthmore Phoenix" reveals that the "Swarthmore" can claim this honor. In the spring months of this year the track and tennis teams of Swarthmore won the Middle Atlantic States championship titles and now the football championship falls to Swarthmore.

The following comment on George Washington University is clipped from the "Pioneer":

"George Washington University is growing, not only in students, but also in buildings, a situation which might well be wished for in other colleges. The dedication of Stockton Hall, the new home of the Law School, was held at the University last Saturday. They are to be congratulated on this new addition to their University."

All the brawn of all the workers of the world would fail to supply the power needed for our construction and production requirements. Modern civilization is based on cheap power readily applied to tasks of all kinds.

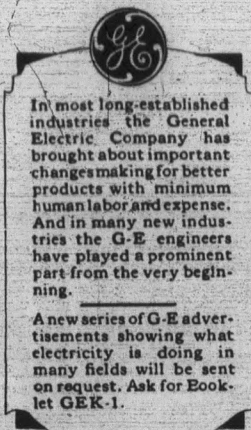

Machinery works: Man thinks

According to college tests, man develops one-eighth horsepower for short periods and one-twentieth in steady work. As a craftsman—a worker who uses brains—he is well worth his daily wage. But as a common laborer, matching brawn against motorized power, he is an expensive luxury.

With a fifty-horsepower motor, for instance, one man can do the work of 400 common laborers. He is paid far more for his brains than his brawn.

The great need of this and future generations is for men who can plan and direct. There is ample motorized machinery for all requirements of production and construction. But motorized machinery, no matter how ingenious, can never plan for itself.

And that is precisely where the college man comes in. Highly trained brains are needed more and more to think, plan, and direct tasks for the never-ending application of brawn-saving electricity.

In most long-established industries the General Electric Company has brought about important changes making for better products with minimum human labor and expense. And in many new industries the G-E engineers have played a prominent part from the very beginning.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for Booklet GEK-1.

G. W. Court Team to Meet Leading Colleges of East

TO TAKE WEEK TRIP

Crum to Coach Team and Will Be Assisted by Jimmy Lemon,
Princeton Star

Announcement is made of the 1926 basketball schedule for the George Washington University team. The tentative schedule includes games with nineteen of the best teams of the east.

Director of Athletics Maud Crum will coach the Hatchet five this season, succeeding Jack Daly, last year's mentor. Coach Crum will be assisted by Jimmy Lemon, high-scoring forward on Princeton University's eastern championship quintet of last year.

Practice for the winter season will begin Monday, November 30, in the Gymnasium, at 7.30. All men reporting are requested to bring equipment.

Included in the schedule is a week's trip through West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania, when West Virginia Wesleyan, West Virginia University, University of Pittsburgh and Geneva will be met on successive nights.

Twelve Home Games Listed

Home games, to be played in the University Gymnasium, include Blue Ridge College, Johns Hopkins, Western Maryland, Richmond University, Lafayette, Loyola, Catholic University, Gallaudet, Dickinson, West Virginia University, Duke University, and William and Mary. Efforts are being made to secure a game with Princeton University, as the Tiger team is making a trip to this section of the country.

Only Paul Bowen and Vernon Brown, forwards, from last year's team, are expected out. Captain Dowd, Captain-elect Zollar, and Sawyer are not expected to return. Coach Crum expects to find several likely men among the newcomers. A number of members of the football squad have been basketball players, while several high and prep school stars are in school for the first time this year.

The tentative schedule follows:

January 5, Blue Ridge College, at home.
January 7, Johns Hopkins University, at home.
January 9, Western Maryland, at home.
January 11, University of Richmond, at home.
January 14, Lafayette, at home.
January 15, West Virginia Wesleyan, at Buckhannon, W. Va.
January 19, West Virginia University, at Morgantown, W. Va.
January 20, University of Pittsburgh, at Pittsburgh, Pa.
January 21, Geneva College, at Beaver Falls, Pa.
January 27, Loyola College, at home.
January 30, Catholic University, home or at C. U.
February 2, Gallaudet, at home.
February 6, Dickinson, at home.
February 9, West Virginia University, at home.
February 12, Duke University, at home.
February 16, William and Mary, at home.
February 19, Bucknell University, at Lewisburg, Pa.
February 20, Penn State, at State College, Pa.
February 24, Catholic University, home or at C. U.

GLEE CLUB TO HOLD FALL DANCE IN GYM

Charleston Solo to Feature Frolic
Scheduled for Night of December 12

Glee Club songsters will step out Saturday night, the twelfth, when they will hold a fall dance in the gymnasium to the tunes of the Marcoron Five Piece Band.

The feature of this year's dance will be a Charleston solo, or maybe two, according to Henry Klinge, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Refreshments and favors will add to the evening's festivities.

Informality, not formality, will reign. Tickets are one dollar and a half and may be obtained from any member of the Club.

At their last dance, held in the same place in the spring, the gym was crowded with merry couples. The evening was enlivened with songs by the club, and the prevailing space was littered with tons of vari-colored streamers and confetti. Toward the close of the evening hundreds of tin crickets were liberated with a resultant outburst of myriads of tin chirps.

Two All-District Football Elevens Selected by Hatchet Sports Writers

Nine Georgetown, Seven George Washington, and Six Catholic University Players Given Places on Mythical Team for Their Showing During the Past Season

BY HOWARD M. BAGGETT AND CAMPBELL STARR

First Team.	Position.	Second Team.
Waite, Georgetown	L. E.	Connors, Catholic University
Hayman, George Washington	L. T.	Defour, Catholic University
Jawish, Georgetown	L. G.	Goldman, George Washington
Kendall, George Washington	Center	Grigsby, Georgetown
Regan, Catholic University	R. G.	Murtaugh, Georgetown
Mosko, Georgetown	R. T.	Slaughter, George Washington
Mayer, Catholic University	R. E.	McGrath, Georgetown
Foley, Catholic University	Q. B.	Sapp, George Washington
Wilton, George Washington	H. B.	Metzger, Georgetown
Hagerty, Georgetown	H. B.	Manfreda, Catholic University
Plansky, Georgetown	F. B.	Mock, George Washington

This selection of a mythical all-District eleven by the Hatchet's football writers will undoubtedly meet with some severe criticism at the three schools represented on the two teams. The writers have tried to choose their men in all fairness, and with an unbiased mind, and submit this selection as coming from two writers who have followed District football throughout the season.

Georgetown is represented on the first eleven by five men, and George Washington and Catholic University by three men each. George Washington and Georgetown have four men each on the second team, while Catholic University is represented by three. The entire season has been taken into consideration when these teams were selected, and both brilliant and consistent playing have been the chief requisites.

Last season the Hatchet published an all-District eleven, made up of men voted upon by the letter men at Georgetown. This method seems impracticable this season, and the Hatchet has adopted this selection by its two football writers as being unbiased and fair. It is hoped before any other all-District elevens are printed. Last season the sporting writers of the District failed to pick a representative eleven, and this mythical team may be the only one picked this season.

Plansky Outstanding Back.
In considering the backfield candidates for the first eleven the name that strikes home most strongly is that of Plansky of Georgetown. Tony, as he is known at Hilltop, is a powerful and heavy back and a very consistent ground gainer. He is also a punter and droppicker of no little note. Several selections of all-American and all-Eastern elevens have made mention on this man. Plansky's running mate, Hagerty, is also a consistent gaining back. He is known for his end-skirting ability, and ranks just below his team-mate in scoring for the season.

Craig Wilton, of George Washington, deserves mention along with Hagerty. Wilton leads all District backs in points scored for the season.

WOMEN FOIL ARTISTS MAY ORGANIZE SQUAD

Professor Lanzilli Plans to Stage
Exhibition Early Next Semester

Providing the girls' fencing classes continue the improvement shown in the past, a team will be selected to compete with other schools, according to Professor Lanzilli, coach of the squad. An exhibition is being planned for early next semester, at which time the women showing best technique in handling the foils will be selected to represent the school. Several classes in girls' fencing are developing rapidly and very satisfactorily, Professor Lanzilli announces. In view of the fact that only three of the girls who are out this year had ever fenced before, it was not expected that very rapid progress would be made.

The beginners are enthusiastic, however, and show a surprising degree of agility and skill. Professor Lanzilli, who has spent the greater part of his life in the study of fencing, is teaching the girls the Italian style. Four classes each week are held at the studio, 1521 G Street. At present there are about 25 girls who are actively interested in the sport. Probably more recruits will be enlisted later. Ruth Jackson, manager of fencing, and Florence Merriam, assistant manager, will tell any girls interested about the sport.

PROMINENT MASONS TO BE PRESENT AT SMOKER

The George Washington University Masonic Club is inviting representatives from all of the Washington Masonic clubs to its smoker in Stockton Hall, December 10. President Lewis and other prominent Masons will attend. An invitation is extended to all Masonic students in the University.

TECH CLUB TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Tech Club of George Washington on Friday, December 4, at 7 o'clock, in Room 22, Corcoran Hall. All Techies are invited.

Another Year is Coming

Basketball Practice Starts

The Football Hop

Faculty Play Volley Ball

Need for Practice Field

A Hard Basketball Schedule

By DAN MCGREW

Well, it's all over until another year. The Buff and Blue Gridmen went down to a glorious defeat at the hands of Catholic University. You know the score. The best team won, but the score it made in winning is not indicative of the real strength of the two elevens. Coleman, out in the first quarter with a bad collar bone, probably broken, Goldman out twice, Jack Crum out the first time he tackled a man, Sapp playing with a broken foot, Capt. Jack Slaughter with an infected foot and Mock with a leg injury that affected his beautiful kicks. That tells the tale of the loss, and shows the need for more reserve material next season. This loss made the turkey-taste left in the mouths of the rooters turn bitter, but next year is another year, and who knows?

After the last touchdown Wilton took the kick-off on his 2-yard line and returned it 49 yards straight down the field. A completed pass and an off-tackle play put the ball in a position to score, but an interrupted pass ruined the chance. Wilton, Slaughter, Sapp and Hayman played stellar defensive ball, the latter covering Mock's punts time and again. They played a whale of a game at guard, while Sapp made multitudes of perfect heaves.

Basketball practice began Monday night with a good-sized squad out for the initial skirmish. It is the best looking squad in years, according to the onlookers. In fact, the hardest schedule in years, according to the schedule makers. Which makes everything even. The basketball team is out to gather in more laurels than the football team has done, but it will require some very excellent basketball to win twelve games, tie four, and lose four, which corresponds to the football record.

The Annual Football Hop, one of the most "collegiate of the college hops," is carded for December 4th, and all indications point to the biggest dance ever. The team deserves a great hop, they have had a great season. Let's all go and show them that we appreciate the work they have done this year.

The Faculty must have its exercise. A volleyball court has been arranged for in the gymnasium, where the athletically inclined profs may work out every day at noon. Professors West, Kera, Sutton, Gropp, and others come out. If you are a politician and can apply your politics to the class room, come over to the gym and cheer the professor who teaches your hardest course and see what results you get. It might work.

Wilton retained his lead over the scallers in the District, although he failed to add a point to it in the C. U. game. Tony Plansky, of Georgetown, the runner-up, was able to account for only 4 points in the Maine game, all these coming from his educated toe. Wilton, 83; Plansky, 61; Metzger went ahead of Plansky, and with 68 took place money, while Mock and Sapp were close on Plansky's heels. Save for Gallaudet and Maryland the teams in the District all were much improved over last year. C. U. probably showing the greatest advance. G. W. scored 279 points against 51 for opponents.

The Brooklanders' driving, slashing attack has been compared to that of Bucknell and those who saw Bucknell play know what that means. A team that is able to start fast and run faster and harder still by the time the line of scrimmage is reached holds a big edge over any rival.

For each of its big games this year George Washington has been scouted at its games and DURING ITS PRACTICE SESSIONS by its opponents. That simply means that there is no possibility of running many trick plays, that a competent scout can look them over and take back to his college a thorough knowledge of every pass, every trick play and of the play of each member of the team, with the result that in a majority of games the Hatchettes have had to resort to straight football. The need for a stadium is great, but the need for a secluded practice field is even greater.

Varsity basketball practice got under way November 30, with about thirty men out for the initial practice. The teams must develop into the best in years to represent the Buff and Blue, if the schedule that has been drawn up is to be carried through with colors flying. Without a doubt this year's schedule is the hardest attempted by a Hatchette quint in many moons. However, prospects are much better than in several years.

Only two letter men from last year's successful squad will carry on this year, Vernon Brown and Paul Bowen, regular forwards last year. Jim Davis and "Reds" Woerner from the 1923 squad will attempt a comeback and, with new material in the University, great things are expected of the Buff and Blue quint this season.

"This is a grave mistake," said the man when he found he had been weeping over the wrong tombstone.

Six Members of Last Year's Team to Make Strong Bid For Varsity
Positions

The women's Varsity basketball season this year is to be worthy of interest to judge by the excellent material shown in the inter-class games, and the strong schedule which has just been announced. Several regulars of last year's Varsity team are playing on the class teams and can be counted on to put up strong competition for the positions this year.

Good work is expected of Elizabeth Hastings, one of the leading scorers last season, and Alys Ewers and Grace Young, star forwards of last year. Alys Ewers is captain of the team. Jean Jackson, Leah Cate, and Betty Armentrout are also expected to be strong contenders for the positions they played last season.

The Varsity team will be selected at the close of the inter-class matches, and practice is to start next week. The inter-collegiate series will open with a game with Wilton Normal, to be played as a double-header when the men's team engages the University of Richmond basketballers on January 11.

Two Trips Scheduled.

The interesting schedule that has been mapped out includes two trips, one to Williamsburg, Va., to play the William and Mary College girls, and the other to Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. A game with the University of Pittsburgh will be played in the gymnasium during Junior Week. The following tentative schedule has been announced, subject to changes.

Jan. 11—Wilton Normal (at home).
Jan. 21—Gallaudet (at home or at Gallaudet).
Feb. 13—William and Mary (at Williamsburg, Va.).
Feb. 13—Westhampton (at home).
Feb. 16—Wilton Normal (at Wilton Normal).
Feb. 19—Gallaudet (at home or at Gallaudet).
Feb. 28—University of Pittsburgh (at home).
Mar. 5—Swarthmore College (at Swarthmore).
Mar. 16—University of Pennsylvania (at home).

GIRLS' INTER-CLASS SERIES UNDER WAY

Juniors Win Over Freshmen While Seniors Lose to Sophomores

SERIES ENDS TOMORROW

Much Valuable Material for Varsity Squad Uncovered in Fast Class Matches

The girls' inter-class basketball series got under way last week in the gymnasium, with the Juniors on top in a close and fast game against the Freshman team, 27 to 23, and the Sophomores in an overwhelming victory over the Senior representatives. Yesterday the Freshmen met the Sophomore team and the Juniors took on the Seniors.

Tomorrow will see the end of the series when the Freshmen and Seniors play, and the Sophomores engage the Junior team. The Sophomore-Junior game will virtually be for the class championship, as the Sophomores have eliminated the Seniors, and the Juniors won over the Fresh.

Varsity Candidates Play

A good deal of excellent material for the varsity team was brought to light by these games. Jimmy Cate, the fast center of last year's varsity sextet; Vergie Merrick, a star forward in high school days; and Betty Chipman showed up well with the Freshman team. The Juniors, sporting four members of the 1925 varsity, Alys Ewers, Elizabeth Hastings, Betty Armentrout, and Jean Jackson, have been able to place an experienced team on the field.

Grace Young, stellar forward last season, is on the Senior team. The Sophomores have none of the varsity regulars on their squad, but have produced several players which are sure to give the letter women a hot fight when the practice sessions get under way.

CATHOLIC U. BESTS HATCHETITE TEAM

have it slip from the clutching fingers of a teammate, or slipped to the ground by the Catholic secondary.

Sapp was declared by many observers to be the most accurate and lengthy passer produced on local gridiron in many years. He backed up the line in a brilliant fashion, checking the C. U. backs who came crashing through, and intercepting several of the enemy's heaves. Craig Wilton was called upon to carry the oval on numerous occasions, but could not make any substantial gains. He was a marked man, and was usually downed before he could get fairly started. He played a spectacular defensive game.

Fischer, Smythe and Manfreda bore the brunt of the Brooklanders' offense. Fischer proved to be skilled in the passing game, accounting for two of his team's touchdowns by means of overhead heaves to Connors and Long. Smythe was the cudgel of the Catholic attack, and proved himself most adept at smashing through the line. Manfreda made a specialty of running the ends and snatching passes.

Throughout the first quarter, Catholic University battered the Buff and Blue line with little success. Three times did the Brooklanders work the ball dangerously close to the Hatchet goal, but were unable to shove it over. Foley's attempt at a field goal was wide.

Brooklanders' Passes Score

The first play of the second quarter resulted in a touchdown. C. U. essayed a triple pass, Fischer to Manfreda to Connors. This was successful, and Foley booted the extra point. During the rest of the second period, the McAuliffe men strove in vain to score again.

The Maroon and Black kicked off to open the second half and were allowed to scoop up the leather on the Axemen's 30-yard line. After two line plays had failed, the Catholics tallied via the air route. A pass, Smythe to Manfreda, did the trick. Foley missed the try for point. A few minutes later, the Crummen penetrated deep into C. U. territory, but one of Sapp's passes was intercepted, and Foley punted out of danger.

The Brooklanders scored their final tally in the last quarter. George Washington was penalized, and a long pass, Fischer to Long, netted a touchdown. Foley kicked the goal. The Hatchettes in desperation, launched another aerial attack which carried them to the enemy 26-yard line, where a pass was intercepted by Harvey, spoiling their chance to tally.

The ball was in possession of the Catholics in midfield when the final whistle shrilled, signifying the end of the game.

The lineup and summary follows:

G. W. U. (9)	C. U. (20)

HISTORY CLUB CHOOSES OFFICERS AT ELECTION

Dr. Bemis Addresses Members On "The Dynamic Interpretation of History"

Officers of the History Club for the current year were chosen at the regular November meeting on Tuesday evening, November 17, as follows: President, Ora L. Marshino; vice President, A. L. Russell; Treasurer, Joseph L. O'Connor; Recording Secretary, Nancy Feehan; Corresponding Secretary, Edith M. Haydon; Publicity Secretary, Anna L. Ericson.

The address of the evening was made by Doctor Samuel F. Bemis, professor of history in the University, who spoke upon "The Dynamic Interpretation of History." Three different interpretations of this important subject were outlined by Doctor Bemis: the Biological Development Theory, the Economic Interpretation, and the Dynamic Interpretation.

Power Means of Destruction.

The last-named theory was stressed in a thought-provoking climax, the proposition being made that if man continues to advance in his control over natural forces at the constantly accelerating rate of the past few decades, the very power which he may find in his hands may prove the means of his destruction, so that he is forced to descend the scale of evolution even to the level from which he originally sprang.

The prospect called forth a very natural protest from the habitual optimists at hand, but they were forced to agree that the function of science is to examine phenomena regardless of all personal sentiment evoked.

PHI SIGMA KAPPA HOST TO ALUMNI

The active Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa was host to the alumni of the Lambda Chapter and to members of other chapters who reside in Washington, at a smoker held on Saturday, November 14th, in the Chapter House, 1813 Columbia Road.

Talks were given by Joseph H. Batt, regional vice president of the fraternity; Ernest F. Wendroth, and H. H. Byrne, alumni members. A report on the recent Regional Conclave, held in Atlanta, was presented by Harold M. Young, of the Active Chapter.

Entertainment was furnished by a prominent local dancer, assisted by an orchestra.

The attendance was most gratifying and the smoker proved so popular that the Active Chapter is planning to give another one in the near future.

DEBATE ARRANGED FOR MENORAH MEETING

A debate has been arranged for the next meeting of the Menorah Society of George Washington University, to be held in Corcoran Hall, Room 1, December 2, at 8.15 o'clock, by Martin Shefferman, chairman of the program committee. The subject for the debate is, "Resolved, That Anti-Semitism Can Be Eradicated."

The speakers are: Affirmative, Miss Marie B. Striss and Stanley Rivie; negative, Miss Ethel Wool and Joseph L. Mendelson. The judges have not as yet been appointed, but men of importance outside of the school will be selected. All students of the University are cordially invited to attend.

ANGLICANS TO DONATE DANCE FUNDS TO POOR

At the last meeting of the Episcopal Club arrangements were completed for the dance which is to be given in Corcoran Hall on December 11. A peppy five-piece orchestra has been engaged and a large crowd is expected. The proceeds of this dance are to be used to purchase Christmas baskets for the poor. Tickets may be had from members of the club for $1 each.

A special business meeting has been called for Thursday, December 3, in Corcoran Hall, Room 23 at 8 o'clock.

PLAYERS TO GIVE PLAY

The Players, George Washington's oldest dramatic organization, is looking forward to a successful season.

The enrollment of new applicants is far in excess of that of any previous year. The formal tryout will be held at the next monthly meeting of the club when five one-act plays are to be presented.

Preparations are also under way for the annual Varsity play.

Hatchet Reviews of Current Shows

By JACK MILLIGAN

SECRETS

Our crack campus critics are broken-hearted because two of the legitimate houses are harboring shows that opened Monday night, too late for review. However, inside dope from our salaried spies alleges that "7th Heaven," John Golden's production of Austin Strong's opus is in hiding at the National, and A. E. Thomas's "White Magic," presented by Donald Gallagher and James W. Elliott, is sequestered at the Belasco. Beryl Mercer and Donald Gallagher head a big cast in the latter drama, which does not, as its title may lead one to believe, concern the Rhineclan trial.

When I inquired at the Columbia about von Stroheim's perfect picture, "The Merry Widow," I was led up an alley and informed on the sly that it is now in its third week, packing the patient public in the theatre up to the "Exit" lights.

RIALTO

Another story of high society, and evils attendant on possession of too much coin of the realm, is at the Rialto this week. "The Wheel" is a story of gambling and love. Love triumphs, but gambling puts in a strong bid. The leading parts are creditably taken by Harrison Ford and Claire Adams. Both do very well. As I saw thousands of bucks banded back and forth, I felt in my pocket and wondered where I could get something to eat for two-bits.

Aesop's fable this week deals with a Pleistocene age sugar papa who courts a prehistoric flapper. The lady, in lieu of a poodle, has a pet dinosaur of Pullman car proportions. The moral of the yarn is: "No matter how shocking a girl is, there is always some boob who is willing to be her shock absorber." What think you, mates? Are any of you shock absorbers?

The other items are the Topics of the Day, a newsreel, comedy, and Mischa Guterson music.

TOM.

Erin go braugh and all that sort of thing at the Palace this week. Thomas Meighan in "Irish Luck" gives the old country some publicity that would do credit to a Florida real estate agent. Historic old Ireland with its castles, its lakes, and its Blarney Stone, provides a quaint and beautiful setting for a time-worn plot. Tommy plays a dual role—a New York cop and an Irish lord—who are, to quote the old tales, "as like as two peas." The cop wins a trip to Europe because of his popularity. Laugh that off. In Dublin he is mistaken for his Lordship. Then the complications begin to set in. Lois Wilson as the Lady Gwendolyn is one of them. Along with other fall fashions, I note that villains are back in style. These think nothing of kidnapping, and murder merely offers them a little diversion. But our hero, all wool and a yard wide, fixes everything and gets the girl, as all good heroes should. It is to be deplored that an actor of Meighan's calibre doesn't get something better in the way of a story. However, the picture is pictorially beautiful and holds the interest in spite of the insult it offers the intelligence.

The usual subsidiary attractions follow, topped by Tom Gannon's excellent music.

HELEN.

METROPOLITAN

Having recovered from his excellent work in "Charley's Aunt," Syd Chaplin is with us again in "The Man On The Box," from the story by Harold McGrath. The picture is a scream, as is evidenced by the chuckles, guffaws, titterings and what-not of the audience. Mr. Chaplin's refreshing artlessness keeps him in mischief all the time, and consequently he is about as busy as the proverbial one-armed paperhanger with the hives. However, with justice to all and malice toward none, we must admit that the title hasn't any more bearing on the story than it is "A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever" or "So's Your Old Manager."

Another attraction is Hope Hampton in a one-reeler adapted from a myth, which was slightly "wet." The World Survey presents the news of the week, including the pictures of some fat ladies trying to reduce. The Metropolitan orchestra, Daniel Breekin conducting, plays "Il Trovatore" for the overture.

Almost everyone was smiling and showing bridgework when leaving the theatre, which means that it was a good show.

JOE and ELBERT.

POLIT'S

"Hello Lola," Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" set to music, affords a rather pleasant evening to those who are still young enough not to have forgotten the days when they were worried and wistful, and head over heels in love. The Schuberts have not given us a fine show, but they have made a pretty one, and we won't shoot them at sunrise because it isn't beautiful. The story features adolescent amour.

Marjorie White and Dick Keene are well casted as Jane and Willie, and they are bravely reinforced at the weak points by Jay C. Flippen, who comes to the rescue with a clever sally whenever things begin to look dull. The dancing is good, and the score is tuneful enough to carry through. Worth-while entertainment, folks.

BOB.

"WHAT PRICE GLORY"

"What Price Glory" at Poli's beginning December 6, offers Washington an opportunity to view some hard-boiled realism in the line of dramatic art. It is not a spectacle for blushing misses, or boys who still believe in Santa Claus. It deals with war as it really is, and with men as they are when removed from the so-called refining influences.

It may be true, as many say, that we like to go to the theatre to "forget our troubles," and many of us prefer sweet, sugary stuff (I use the word stuff advisedly) to tales of trouble and despair. But nevertheless the greatest dramas of all time are founded on the frustration of human aims. Man is more interesting when he is battling against adverse forces than when he is fat, complacent, and successful. And the more heroic his battle against adversity, the more interesting he is, and the more does he provide material for the artist who tells of life.

The play has to do with the adventures and misadventures of a company of marines in France. The plot hinges on the struggle between Captain Flagg, "skipper" of the company, and Top Sergeant Quirt, for the affections of Charmaine, daughter of a village barkeeper. With this sordid rivalry serving as a lever to keep the story moving, the authors give us vivid glimpses of war and of men in the raw. These are such men as one finds in the logging camp, in the fore-castle, or in any place where men live together and in rough and ready style. These marines have a whole-hearted contempt for the canny gentlemen who remained at home to do their bits in the "New Jersey sector." They sneer disgustedly when reminded that they are making the world safe for democracy. Nevertheless, they stick to the task before them, and attempt to see it through. There is something within the true soldier, and within the true man in any field of endeavor, which will not allow him to be a quitter.

The dialogues are refreshing in their genuineness. There are no upstage accents. The swing and lift of the conversations, the colloquialisms, are pure American. The corporal from the East Side of New York presents the point of view of that section with faithfulness, and he coaches it in dialect that any New Yorker will cough for. The lieutenant who was formerly a locomotive engineer in Louisiana speaks in tones of "linked sweetness, long drawn out"; quite the custom around those parts, I understand. Two of the lieutenants are ex-college boys, but their chief usefulness seems to be as French translators.

And in conclusion, let me advise all and sundry to see this show, even if it involves taking out a mortgage on the watch.

CONTRIBUTIONS ASKED FOR CHRISTMAS BARREL

The George Washington student body will again have the opportunity of bringing happiness to a family at Christmas time! A barrel will soon be ready to receive gifts of clothes, toys or money. Last year, the barrel held but a small part of the large contributions which came into Dean Rose's office.

Beside the Christmas Barrel of Cheer the girls of the University are undertaking the making of bright colored scrap books for the Children's Hospital. Every girl in the university is asked to help. Come out to the "Y" meeting, Friday girls, and hear all about it.

The meeting will be held in Room 17, Corcoran Hall, immediately after noon chapel.

FOOTBALL HOP PROFIT TO AID NEW ACTIVITIES

Administration officers, Deans of the colleges, and members of the Athletic Committee have been invited to attend and it is expected that advantage will be taken of this opportunity to have President Lewis, and Coach Crum give short talks to the students on the progress and accomplishments of the football team. Chaperones will be Professor and Mrs. Bolwell, Professor and Mrs. Doyle, and Secretary and Mrs. Kayser.

The Committee, composed of Harold M. Young of the Men's "G. W." Club, general chairman; Marguerite Daly, of the Girls' "G. W." Club; and Edwin S. Bettelheim, publicity manager, has made final arrangements for the Hop and urges that tickets be secured before the final day. Tickets at $2.50 per couple are now on sale by members of the two Clubs and at the Treasurer's Office, Registrar's Office, and the Secretary's Office at the Law School.

PLAN RECEPTION FOR DR. AND MRS. LEWIS

Columbian Women to Entertain at Washington Club Friday, December 11.

The Columbian Women of George Washington University will entertain in honor of President and Mrs. William Mather Lewis, on Friday evening, December 11, at the Washington Club.

In the receiving line with the guests of honor will be Mrs. Henry Gratton Doyle, president of The Columbian Women; and the officers of her administration—Mrs. Charles I. Corby, Mrs. Dewitt C. Croissant, Mrs. Frank R. Rutter, Miss Irene M. Platorio, Mrs. Chester Howe and Miss Ruby Nevins.

The various committees in charge of the arrangements for the reception are: Place, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr.; Hostesses, Miss Alice Henning, chairman; Invitations, Mrs. C. H. Squire, chairman, Mrs. Samuel F. Bemis, Mrs. Alan Delbert and Miss Rhoda Watkins; Music, Miss Helen Gregg and Miss Grace Harris; Flowers, Miss Dorothy Overstreet and Miss Helen Stoutamyer.

ALL-DISTRICT ELEVEN SELECTED BY HATCHET

The second team backfield is made up of Mock, of George Washington, at fullback, Manfreda, of C. U., and Metzger, of Georgetown, at half, and Sapp, of G. W., at quarter. Mock is a consistent punter and ground gainer, Manfreda and Sapp are the best broken-field men in the District, while the latter is a passer of no little ability. Metzger is the leading point scorer for Georgetown and is second in scoring in the District. He is also good at broken-field work.

Connors, C. U.'s 198 pound end, and McGrath, of Georgetown, make up the wing positions on the second eleven. Dufour of C. U., and Captain Jack Slaughter, of G. W., are the tackles. Slaughter is one of the most consistent tackles in the District, he does not stand out as some more spectacular men do, but is in the line fighting all the time. Murtaugh, of G. U., and "Mike" Goldman, of G. W., are nominated for the second team guard positions. For center Grigsby, of Georgetown, is chosen.

Honorable mention should be made of Coleman and Crum, of G. W.; Gormley, G. U.; and Fischer, Garvin, Adams, and Harvey of G. U., in the backfield; Allshouse, G. W., and McGann; C. U. at end; McGovern, C. U., and Saur, G. U., at tackle; Moore, C. U., and Athey, G. W. at guard; and O'Dea, C. U. at center.

Seven of the men chosen for the two elevens made the Hatchet's all-District teams last year. Hegarty, McGrath, and Regan made the first eleven last year, while Jawish, Goldman, Murtaugh, and Plansky were given places on the second mythical team.

REDECORATE ROOMS FOR STUDENTS IN CAFETERIA

The two downstairs rooms in the University Cafeteria, 2022 G St., formerly reserved for members of the faculty, have now been turned over to the students. New linoleum is being laid, curtains hung, and the rooms are being attractively decorated throughout.

The management announces that these rooms may now be reserved by student organizations for luncheons, dinners, and other social functions. Several such functions have already been held and have met with great success.

FLORAL STUDIES SHOWN AT BOTANICAL EXHIBIT

The botany laboratory on the top floor of building 3 was the scene of a charming at home, given by Professor and Mrs. Griegs on November 23, in honor of Miss Margaret Swain, whose exquisite floral studies in water colors they had on exhibition. The collection of paintings represented a whole summer's work tramping about Lynn, Mass., in search of specimens, and entailed many an unexpected dip in a swamp. The exhibition was an inspiration to all botany students.

G. W. STRING ENSEMBLE

Formation of the George Washington String Ensemble has been announced by Professor Gropp. Violinists, viola players, and cellists are wanted. All students interested in joining the ensemble are asked to be present at a meeting to be held Friday, December 4, at 8 p. m. in Room 1, Corcoran Hall.

INTERFRAT SMOKER HELD AS GRID RALLY

President Lewis, Coach Crum, Captain Slaughter and Team Members Speak

BASEBALL CUP AWARDED

Music is Furnished by Kappa Sigma Synopsators, Songs Are Led by Society

The Annual Inter-Fraternity Smoker, in the nature of a football rally, held at the University Gymnasium last Wednesday night, was well attended. Music was furnished by the Kappa Sigma Synopsators, Gene Sweeney led the singing of his songs. President Lewis, Coach Crum and Captain Slaughter made short addresses, followed by the presentation of the inter-fraternity baseball cup to Kappa Sigma, by Sterry Waterman.

President Lewis, who was greeted by a great ovation, said, "In football, as in life, the winner is the one who thinks clearest and fights hardest. I am optimistic about the game with Catholic University. I think the Buff and Blue will win; but, win or lose, men, you are backing a team of which you should be proud; one which deserves the support of the entire school, and one that augurs well for athletics at dear old G. W."

Speaks For Clean Athletics.

President Lewis then spoke for clean athletics and good sportsmanship, not only for the team, but for the cheering section as well, whom he urged to refrain from "razzing." He talked of the Greater George Washington, and emphasized the important part the football team and other athletic teams of the University were taking in establishing that Greater University.

Jack Slaughter, captain of the Football Team, then spoke of the urgent need for substitutes. "If George Washington is going to have a good football team and keep on having good football teams, more men must come out for practice." He warned the student body and the team against over-confidence, which he said had lost more than one game for a team. The members of the Buff and Blue eleven were cheered, as they were introduced individually to the audience.

Coach Maud Crum further emphasized the great need for substitutes. He suggested that each fraternity make it compulsory for their freshmen to report for practice. The schedule for the football team for next year was announced.

Yes, it's true that she'll know you paid just five calling cards for her Parker Lady Duo-fold, but do you really think she thinks the non-nativity costs more? Then you'd better look farther.
